I. H. CARPENTER PUT UP FIGHT

When Chief Appleby Placed Him Under Arrest in the Western Union Office Last Evening.

Mrs. I. H. Carpenter, local agent of the Western Union Telegraph company, was ill last evening and shortly after eight o'clock friends apprised Chief Appleby over the telephone that her husband was intoxicated and raising a disturbance generally, and the report was found to be exaggerated. Carpenter was abusing a messenger boy when the chief reached the scene and showed fight when told that he was under arrest. The two men grappled and would have pitched down the stairway together if the chief had not succeeded in twisting one arm behind his back and putting the flu man on Carpenter just as they reached the bank. In municipal court this morning Carpenter pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and was sentenced to pay a fine and costs amounting to $4 or spend seven days in jail. The fine was paid by Mr. McNally of the Western Union office.

Roulton Bigger, who completed a term at the county jail on Saturday, was sent back for seven days more. He claims that one arm is out of commission and that he cannot get or get any employment. Foremaster Anderson may transfer him to the county house for treatment.

Martha Hovland of Cottage Grove took the wrong train out of Madisonville intoxicated last evening. He was punished here a month ago for drunkenness. He had but $2.50 on his person and was finally allowed to pay half of a fine and costs amounting to $4 with the understanding that he forward the balance as soon as he reaches the old home town. As he was only left fifty cents for car fare and has to walk part of the way, this may not be for some time.

Charles Loucks pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and paid a fine and costs amounting to two dollars.

PRINTER ATTACKED THE CITY EDITOR

Charles D. Pearce Arrested Early This Morning on Complaint of L. W. Moffett of the Recorder.

L. W. Moffett, city editor of The Recorder, was attacked by Charles D. Pearce, a printer who has been in the employ of the same establishment, as he started home from the office, in company with his wife, at an early hour this morning. It is alleged that Pearce was intoxicated and that he struck at Moffett several times. Officer Sam Brown took the printer to the police station where he spent the night.

Pearce is said to have received notice early last evening that his services would not be needed after the expiration of two weeks and to have quit on the spot and persuaded another compositor to leave with him. It is alleged that he thereafter hung about the neighborhood and passed unfavorable comment on the other employees of the establishment.

On a charge of assault and battery preferred against him in municipal court this morning, the prisoner entered a plea of not guilty, and the trial was set for Wednesday morning at ten o'clock. The court announced that it would fix no bonds but would leave Pearce in the custody of Chief Appleby. The latter released him on his own recognizance.

POLICE JUDGE WILL REFORMS DRUNKARDS AND MAKES HAPPY HOMES—JUDGE WILLIAM JEFF POLLARD.

St. Louis, Mo.—The advanced ideas of Judge Pollard of the local police court met with severe criticism at first until he demonstrated that leniency in certain cases, of first offenders especially, was a practical means of reform when properly applied. It was Judge Pollard who first excited singing of a total abstinence pledge. Instead of sending the prisoner to the workhouse, the cure is still fresh in the minds of many who were cognizant of the facts.

That the man was a brute was clear to the judge. The prisoner had admitted beating his wife many times, and her blackened eyes bore mute witness to his latest attack. Neighbors of the wife testified to her sterling character and to the brutal treatment she had received for years at the hands of her husband.

"Six months in the workhouse at hard labor," announced the judge. Then the wife began to cry and to plead for the man she had brought before the court.

"He is the sole support of my six children and myself," she said. "If you send him to jail, judge, we will starve. I would rather take his beatings and have food for the little ones. Please judge, let him go."

Judge William Jefferson Pollard was in a quandary. He looked at the brutal face of the prisoner, and he gazed at the tearful wife. He picked up his pen and wrote a few lines on a sheet of paper.

"I have written here a pledge by which you promise to abstain completely from the use of intoxicating liquors for one year from date," said the judge to the prisoner, "and you will report to me at my home two evenings each week, that I may judge whether or not you are keeping the pledge. If you sign this pledge I will withhold sentence upon you, but if you ever violate this pledge within the year, I will send a policeman after you and send you to the workhouse for six months."

The Pollard plan gives the first offender a chance. And with the moving cause of his troubles—drunkenness—removed he settles down and becomes a decent citizen and then at the end of the pledge year if he resumes drinking it is in moderation. He learns the lesson of temperance.

Judge William Jeff Pollard, as he signs himself, is a bachelor. He has never had an unselfish life. He did not marry because he had an aged mother to care for until a few years ago. It is the memory of this mother that is the guiding spirit of his life. It was she who instilled in him a love for all mankind and all womankind.

He has heart as big as his body and his purse is ever open to any who need aid. He is trying to make his life worth while by pointing the way to his less fortunate brethren to be good citizens, good husbands and good fathers. He is a man of parts, a man of peace. He believes that there is good in all men, and that the majority want to be good if they only know how. As a typical Missourian he is "showing them."

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION.

The demand for expert labor was never so urgent as today and efforts are being made to intelligently meet this demand through courses of special training along industrial lines. Trade schools are established in all parts of the country to give young men an opportunity to prepare for the work of life.

To keep pace with this new departure and to make the farm and farm life more inviting, the agricultural college is filling a long-felt want and thousands of boys are rapidly developing into scientific farmers. An exchange in discussing this question, says, referring to the movement:

"It has already, at all events, appealed to industrial Kansas. By industrial Kansas, of course, is meant agricultural Kansas. Kansas needs skilled farmers. It needs a great many of them. It is willing and able to compensate them handsomely. But they are not to be found in the open market. The skilled farmer does not, and very seldom is, out of employment. To put it in another way, he is as much in demand as workmen in all the other trades who really know their business. Kansas must have a supply of trained agriculturists beyond what it is now obtaining from the agricultural colleges, and the state is beginning to consider the public schools as the source of this supply."

"Why not? Why should not the children of Kansas be instructed in the trade most likely to beckon them when they leave school? Why should they be turned out from the grammar grades or from the high school with knowledge of many things of doubtful worth and in utter ignorance of the one thing which in the ordinary course of events is likely to be of the greatest value to them? The country as a whole needs young men who are well grounded in common school studies and would not be willing that a single one of the essentials should be abandoned; but at this time it needs expert farmers more than it needs experts in any of the ornamental branches of education. This is particularly the case throughout the West and Northwest, and if Kansas hesitates or halts in the matter of training its children in the vocation that is nearest them, it is probable that other states will take the honor of initiating this great movement."

The question asked is a sensible question. The farms of Kansas, like the farms of many other states, have simply been skinned over. The soil is fertile and capable of producing vastly more than is now secured.

The supply barely meets the demands of the home market, and the field is more inviting to young men, than any other channel of industry. The scientific farmer is in demand today, and the possibilities of his career are neither speculative nor uncertain. The great storehouse of nature contains many secrets and science holds the key.

The automobile business, which has caused the bankers so much trouble, is likely to have a rival in the airship industry, as will be seen from the following paragraph in a bankers' magazine. "When the automobile man no longer troubles the bankers, a new outbreak, and perhaps a more dangerous one, looms in sight. Navigating the air is not only a costly form of amusement, but one that will keep the banker busy in watching for his borrower who may sail the 'upper deeps.' How is the banker to know, even with the aid of a powerful field glass, whether the ship he sees aloft was paid for with funds borrowed from his bank? All the aviator will have to do is to borrow his money in one county and build his ship in another. Kite-flying has always been a source of annoyance to the banker, and this latest form of it also contains interesting possibilities."

Between democratic advice and democratic support the republican party in Wisconsin is between the devil and the deep blue sea. The party had so much to do with the success of republican candidates at the primary election, that it lost identity as a party in many parts of the state, and the organs are now busily engaged in efforts to run the campaign. The words are full of democratic orphans.

All personal differences should be sacrificed in the efforts now being made to locate the big Chicago factory in the city. The question of most importance is not where, but anywhere in Janesville. The city needs the influx of new life and new blood, and 1,500 new people in six months beats the birth rate for a decade.

Clarence Ditz has opened headquarters in Milwaukee to take charge of the national fund being raised to defend his family. The fee promises to be something worth while for the attorneys engaged in the case.

Roosevelt has taken a day off to investigate intended farming in Central New York. If he would prolong the tour indefinitely it would be a relief to some people who are wondering what he will do next.

The corporation tax receipts for the year amount to $25,000,000, much of which was paid under protest.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

HIS $10 A DAY.

A college graduate bewails the public taste and laments his lack of opportunity to use his education.

He says he has spent eight years in preparation to be a public school teacher, but no one is seeking his services. At the same time he knows a young man who quit the common schools in the sixth grade who makes $10 a day by diving daily from a sixty foot ladder into a tank.

So? And does the college man think somebody will hunt him up and beg him to accept $10 a day?

He faces a condition and not a theory, for the world of today is asking of a man not so much, What do you know? but—

What can you do?

The diver can do something. He does not know so much as the collegian, but he knows a part of the public likes to be thrilled, and he is able to thrill it, though at imminent risk of his neck.

The collegian must have learned somewhere in his eight year course that, other things being equal, a man is paid according to the service he renders to his fellow.

What service can he render?

The diver can make his high jump better than another, and to that extent he is a specialist.

Now, the advantage of a college education—over and above the personal satisfaction of it—is in the sharpening of a man's mind so that he can do things better than the man whose mind has not been so sharpened. Else why the time and money that is spent?

The collegian with all his education cannot perhaps make a successful high dive into a tank.

But there is something he can do and do better than the diver, always provided he is not an educated fool.

Let him find out what he can do, and then let him begin where all, illiterate or literate, must begin—at the bottom.

When he has learned how to do something worth $1 a day or $10 a day, whether it is diving off a ladder, or managing a factory, or ploughing a field, or boring a tunnel, or raising sheep, or what not, his money is ready.

A severe test? Yes, and a painful one, but it is the test.

And if the collegian seems to begin at the bottom and work up to his $10 a day he will be slow in getting it.

AMBASSADOR STRAUSS IS READY TO RETIRE

Believes His Mission to Turkey Has Been Accomplished—Wants to Quit Service.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Believing he has accomplished his mission, Oscar S. Strauss, the American ambassador to Turkey, is desirous of retiring from the diplomatic field and return to the United States permanently.

Mr. Strauss saw the president and reported that all the matters in dispute between Turkey and the United States which he had been delegated to adjust have been satisfactorily disposed of, leaving the two nations for the first time in many years without a single diplomatic hitch between them.

Because of this state of affairs and for the reason that his acceptance of the Turkish ambassadorship was based on the representation that his services were needed to restore harmony between the two governments, Mr. Strauss feels that his mission has been accomplished and there is no further reason for him to expatriate himself. He has not resigned his post, and if the president insists upon it, Mr. Strauss will return to Constantinople at the end of his sixty days' leave of absence.

PARTY REPUDIATED.

The committee wearing the title of the "Republican State Central committee," held a meeting in Milwaukee yesterday and by resolution repudiated the candidacy of Levi H. Bancroft, the regular nominee for attorney general, and endorsed as an independent candidate C. H. Crowhart, the late campaign manager.

The history which culminated in this unusual proceeding is so recent that it is familiar. Three candidates for the office of attorney general, were in the field at the primary election in September—Tucker, Bancroft and Crowhart. Tucker died suddenly, three days before election, but instructions to vote for him were sent out over the state so that the dead man's shoes could be filled by a live insurgent to be selected by the state central committee.

The program was carried out to the letter and the dead man, Tucker, was declared the nominee. To this Mr. Bancroft objected, and his appeal to the supreme court resulted in an order to place his name on the ticket as the regular nominee.

This is where the case stood when the committee in question took a hand by ignoring the authority of the court and Mr. Bancroft's rights, and named an independent candidate to compete for the office. This is insurgency stripped of all pretense—disloyalty to everything that refuses to bow to the will of the dictator.

This committee represented the sentiment of the men who refused to recognize the President at a late convention, and their action is not surprising. Just what they hope to accomplish by repudiating the republican party is not easy to determine, as their independent candidate stands no show at election.

The dead man, Tucker, whom he succeeded, received 13,000 less votes at the primary election, than his two competitors, and there were 175,000 republican voters who stayed at home on election day. A majority of this "stay-at-home" vote will be out at the November election, and support the straight ticket. This, with the Tucker opposition, will insure Bancroft's election. The committee does not represent the party under whose banner it sails, as it will discover when the votes are counted next month.

Strange Offerings on Graves.

Striking grave-diggers in the cemetery of Pera la Chaise recently called attention to the largest of Paris burial grounds and one that is said to harbor more celebrities than any other cemetery in the world. Few of the tombs, however, possess much artistic merit. "Weight is their chief peculiarity," writes Augustus Hare, "and all the monuments look as if each family had tried to pile up as much marble as possible upon their deceased relatives." To foreign visitors the offerings on some of the graves constitute the most interesting feature. "Children's graves are often strewn with fruit and sweets, and those of adults with more substantial food. Bottles of wine are also seen, and one bereaved parent leaves a potato salad on his son's tomb every Sunday."

He Loves Me, He Loves Me Not.

"God doesn't love me any more," sobbed Mary to her mother one day.

"Why, dear, God loves everybody; what do you mean?"

"Oh, no, he doesn't love me, I'm sure, for I tried him with a delay,"—Metropolitan Magazine.

I was telling her about the permanency of gold crowns.

"Yes, I know how well they last," she said. "You put on some gold crowns over five years ago for me, and I like them very well. Never a minute's trouble."

It's not much work for me to convince a former patient when talking of dental work.

They already are convinced by the durability and perfect satisfaction of my former work.

ILL AND STARVING IN AN OLD SHACK

Foreigner Living in Hut by Gas House Has Had Nothing to Eat For Twelve Days.

Chief of Police Appleby and Police Master A. Anderson started out this afternoon to investigate a report that a foreigner, believed to be either an Italian or Belgian, had been found in a destitute, helpless, and starving condition in a little shack beyond the gas-house, once occupied by a man named Macerady. Accordingly to the story the man attracted the attention of a passer by this morning by beating on the window and made signs indicating that he was dying of thirst and had had nothing to eat for twelve days. No sign language was necessary, it is said, to show that he was ill and destitute.

Later, The man is John McWade, age 55, and the shack is located at the corner of Third street and St. Mary's avenue. Police Master Anderson took the man some food and directed Mr. Sutherland to call on him.

STORIES OF CAMP AND WAR

CAPTURE OF FORT JOHNSON

Sergeant Oronpeck Tells How Expedition Succeeded in Parapet at James Island.

I think congress would pass the expedition's bill in a hurry if the legislators had a fair conception of the rebel prisons during the war. I enlisted September 19, 1861, and was discharged May 2, 1865, with but one enlistment. They were around in the winter of 1863-64 re-enlisting men and paying $400 bounty, but I thought if I stayed in the army three years and did my duty I would get my share, so I did not re-enlist, and on July 3, 1864, I was taken prisoner on the parapets of Fort Johnson at James Island, writes Sgt. Leander Oronpeck, Company E, Fifty-second Pennsylvania, in National Tribune.

An expedition started from Battery Chatham, on the lower part of Morris Island, composed of 67 eight-oared boats, called rowboats, for the capture of the fort. We had to row against the tide, and were not able to land until daylight. As soon as the rebels discovered what we were doing they opened up on us, and they made an awful racket. The expedition was composed of all of the men fit for duty of the Fifty-second Pennsylvania, the One Hundred and Twenty-sixth New Jersey and a few from the Third Rhode Island heavy artillery. Seven boats went back and left us. We first took Brooks' battery, which was near to the shore on James Island, and then went for Fort Johnson, which was an earth fort. We had to go through a marsh between the forts of about an eighth mile.

The commander of the expedition was Col. Henry M. Hoyt of our regiment. We fought quite awhile, with the rebels on one side of the parapet and we on the other. We finally got on top of the parapet, but the colonel saw there was not enough of us to take the fort, and he raised his hands, chief upon his sword and was surrendered. I did not know until then that the rest of the expedition had gone back and left us, for I did not look back after we landed until then.

We were taken into Charleston, and found few rebel soldiers there. We were sure that if we had all landed we could have taken Charleston on July 4, 1864, as easy as not. We were taken to Andersonville in a few days, and were there three or four months. Ours was the ninety-ninth detachment.

I will not say anything about the rations we got while in Andersonville, for they were better and were nearly all cooked and more of them than received while in any other prison.

We were in Charleston about a month, and then we were taken to Florence. Our rations there were nearly all raw, and we had no wood to cook with. Cornmeal was our principal ration. It was pretty flat stuff to have just warmed up and not a bit of salt in it. I don't think I had a teaspoonful of salt in the 234 days I was in prison. Sometimes we got rice or cornmeal. We that did finally live to get out had hardly enough rations to keep the breath of life in us. The rebels did not provide any kind of shelter for us, and we suffered greatly with the cold.

I had a good suit in my knapsack, and I had sent nearly all of the money home that I had received at last pay day. So my clothing wore all ragged, and it was winter and I had to lie on the ground. I suffered awfully, but probably not as much as some of the prisoners with nothing but a shirt on; the rebels had taken all but the shirt. Some of the prisoners took the clothing from the dead. From Florence we were taken to Libby prison, February 24, 1865.

When I was paroled at Libby prison I could not walk alone, and had to be helped from the prison to the boats on the James river. I had been at Camp Parole but five days, when I got a furlough and went home. My folks had not heard from me for a long time, and thought I was dead.

ODD SWIMMING DEVICE

Propeller Drives Wearer Forward While Preserver Floats Him.

Now we have a swimming machine among the things that have made many a life and rescued many a life. This machine was invented by a New York engineer, and all that the owner has to do is to strap it on and turn the crank. He is then propelled rapidly through the water while in an upright position and has his feet free to kick the bottom out of the way. A broad life preserver is strapped around the body under the armpits. Hauling back from this is a tube with a driving shaft inside it and a screw propeller at the rear end. Hauling forward is an extension of the tube with the gear wheel that operates the propeller and handle for driving it. The "swimmer," or whatever he may be called, has merely to turn the handles and the propeller is started revolving, pushing him through the water at a rapid rate. If he wants to go straight forward he need not use his feet at all, but in order to change his course he has only to kick out a few times with the feet opposite the "swimmer" in which he is riding.

The Power of Etna.

The eruption of Mount Etna in March has led to a study of the operations of the great Sicilian volcano which presents an imposing picture of its gigantic power. When the strain produced by the accumulating lava in the interior becomes too great to be borne, the mountain often splits open on one side, and there the molten rock pours out and flows for miles down the slope and across the adjacent country. In the eruption of 1883 the southern slope of the mountain was split, and the immense fissure has served as an outlet for the lava during several subsequent eruptions. A curious fact is that, owing to the gradual filling up of the fissure, each eruption has occurred at a greater elevation. Thus, in 1883 the outbreak occurred at an elevation of 3,440 feet; in 1886, at 4,750 feet; in 1887, at 6,000 feet, and in 1910, at 6,972 feet. Youth's Companion.

WOMAN WHO OVERHEARD PLANS OF PLOT TO BLOW UP TIMES BUILDING—MRS. B. H. INGERSOLL, WHOSE EVIDENCE IS MOST IMPORTANT IN THE TIMES DYNAMITING INVESTIGATION.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Unsettling her lips, which have been silenced through fear of death since the destruction of the Los Angeles Times building September 21, Mrs. B. H. Ingersoll of 3551 Twentieth street has uttered the first words which put Detective William J. Burns in direct touch with the trio of suspected dynamiters, the history of their movements and their personal effects, and at last directed the world-wide man hunt on a well defined and clearly blazed trail which the men have taken to escape the long, sure arm of the law.

Hit by bit the plan to wreck the newspaper office fell on her startled ears through an open transom at her home where J. P. Bryce and William Morris, alias Perry, known as "Smitty," discussed every detail of the dynamite purchase and subsequent shipment. Bryce occupied a room from September 4 to 14 at the Twentieth street flat, and there was visited by Morris two and three times a day as the plans of the trio slowly and surely developed. Each day a new detail was unfolded to the listening woman, who only realized the enormity of the plan when twisted girder were being lifted from the burned and mutilated bodies of the victims.

The greatest secrecy has been maintained by the detectives with respect to the woman, and it was impossible to get any statement other than a general admission that the most tangible clue yet developed had at last fallen into their hands. With a score of detectives scattering their efforts across land and sea, it is now possible to concentrate the hunt within a clearer radius, and the hope of the searchers has now reached the highest point since the mystery was presented to them.

Prince Francis of Teck in Critical Condition With Pleurisy—Has Undergone Two Operations. (Special to the Gazette.)

London Oct. 25.—Queen Mary, with other members of the royal family is deeply concerned over the condition of her brother, Prince Francis of Teck, who for some time has been critically ill with pleurisy. He has already undergone two operations, and although he rallied from these, his condition is still considered grave.

Prince Francis is still comparatively young man, not yet having reached his fortieth birthday. He is the second son of the late Duke and Duchess of Teck, the latter of whom was a first cousin of Queen Victoria. The brothers of Prince Francis are Prince Adolphus of Teck, who married the homely, wealthy Lady Margaret Grosvenor, daughter of the late Duke of Westminster, after he had paid unsuccessful court to the young Queen of Holland, the Prince Alexander of Teck, who married the pretty Princess Alice of Albany, an especial favorite of Queen Victoria. Queen Mary is the only sister of the three tall and military-looking princes, of whom she is exceedingly proud.

It is an open secret that so long as King Edward lived the Teck princes were kept in the background. The late King evidently shared the dislike of his mother for the Tecks, although both made an exception in the case of Princess Mary (now Queen Mary) whose marriage with Prince George met with their hearty approval.

Many causes have been assigned for the dislike which Queen Victoria always entertained for her cousin. In the first place her marriage with the Duke of Teck did not meet with the royal approval, while the marital shortcomings of the Duke after his marriage, and above all the financial scrapes in which he frequently became involved, served to complete the prejudice of the Queen against the family.

But with the accession of King George and Queen Mary to the throne the star of the Tecks has come into the ascendant. The Queen's affection for her three handsome brothers is shared to a large extent by the King, as has already been evidenced by the honors and financial favors which have been bestowed upon the three princes since the present reign began.

Pastor's Revenge.

In that one of the hundred best books Vallery-Radot's "Life of Pasteur" we read the story of his misery. It is nothing to say that the war nearly broke his heart. But it broke neither his faith nor the straight line of his work. Only a sort of rage possessed him to redeem and console France by working for her. "Henceforth," he said, "every one of my books shall have written on it these words, Revenge, revenge, revenge." And this was his revenge, to set the name of France in the honors list of science higher than ever; to give the rest of his life to her service, and to wear himself out for her sake.

HE IS NOW JUNIOR PARTNER

How Boy First Came, Unconsciously, to Find Favor With His Employer.

"Our junior partner," said a business man, "came to us as a boy. We had two boys at that time, both equally promising, but one of these boys has since risen only to be a junior clerk in our shipping department, while the other has now become our junior partner. How did we come to know which was which? I will tell you."

"When I came down to the store one morning I found one of the boys sweeping the sidewalk and he was sweeping against the wind. Dust and litter blowing back over the space he had swept, and he going back to sweep it up again. Nice boy and meant well, but lacked the kindling spark of quick intelligence. It didn't dawn on him that he was sweeping the wrong way."

"Next day I found the other boy sweeping and he was sweeping the right way, with the wind. No dust and litter blowing back, to be taken up again with loss of time, but everything going with him. He was sweeping the sidewalk cleaner, making a better job of it, and in half the time. Even at that age the boy had good sense and intelligence, a faculty for doing things the right way, and this faculty he developed more and more strongly as he went along."

Your Attention!

We wish to direct your attention particularly to the most complete and comprehensive stock of

Wearing Apparel

we have ever shown. We can safely say that at the present time we are AT OUR BEST.

HOW COMPLETE our showings are can best be learned by visiting the department. We are almost proud, we have had so many compliments showered upon us. Women who are thoroughly posted, who have ransacked "these diggings," been to the big cities, are our most enthusiastic patrons.

ASSORTMENTS OF COATS, SUITS, DRESSES, both silk and wool, PARTY GOWNS, SEPARATE SHIRTWAISTS and FURS as large as The Big Store shows can only be found in much larger cities. There is nothing in Janesville to compare with the stock we are displaying. We know the trouble other stores have had and are having getting garments. The great New York strike certainly did much harm. The Big Store's forehanded buying policy stands us in good stead this season. Where others have broken lines and a meager variety, The Big Store gets there with a complete range of sizes, all the wanted colors and the newest styles—enough to keep one busy looking for hours and hours.

Speaking of Coats

Never had more taking styles, never had them sell easier. Coats of plain materials, blacks, blues, greens, tans, coats in mixtures of gray, green and brown, coats of plush, camel and Russian pony. The new polo coats, golf coats with plaid linings and trimmings. Women all say

It Is THE Line of Coats

We have just received a second shipment of the large sized black coats and can fit any lady in 32 to 50 bust measure.

For Misses, Juniors and Children

The coats we show are just the styles that make one think when they see them, "Wonder where she got it," on account of their stylishness. There is a certain dash to them that compels attention. They are the kind that please the growing members of the family, make them feel like new.

The Big Store's business in Wearing Apparel is growing by leaps and bounds, which warrants us in making such a large investment in ready-to-wear garments. BUY IT IN JANESVILLE. Don't trip off to Chicago before at least knowing what is in your own city. Be a booster.

NEAR ADMIRAL J. J. READ DIED.

Veteran Succumbs to Heart Trouble

After Brief Illness.

Mount Holly, N. J., Oct. 25.—Near

Admiral John J. Read died at his home here from heart trouble after an illness of about two weeks. He was born in Mount Holly on June 17,

1842. During the Civil war he was a division officer on Admiral Farragut's flagship Hartford. He was "first captain of the cruiser Olympia, which he took from San Francisco to Asiatic waters in 1895. It was this same ship and crew, under Commodore Dewey, now admiral, that did such heroic and effective service in the battle of Manila Bay.

WILL CUT OFF SENATOR'S TOE.

Shively of Indiana Is to Submit to Operation, Is Report.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 25.—United States Senator B. F. Shively, who has been suffering for a week from an infection of a toe, which followed paring a corn, was sent to bed at his home in this city by his physicians, and it was announced that to prevent danger of blood poisoning the toe probably would be amputated later in the week.

WISE WORDS

A Physician on Food.

A physician, of Portland, Oregon, has views about food. He says:

"I have always believed that the duty of the physician does not consist with treating the sick, but that we owe it to humanity to teach them how to protect their health, especially by hygienic and dietetic laws.

"With such a feeling as to my duty

I take great pleasure in saying to the public that in my own experience I have found no food so equal Grape-Nuts, and that I find there is almost no limit to the great benefit this food will bring when used in all cases of sickness and convalescence.

"It is my experience that no physical condition forbids the use of Grape-Nuts. To persons in health

there is nothing so nourishing and acceptable to the stomach, especially at breakfast, to start the machinery of the human system on the day's work.

"In cases of indigestion I know that a complete breakfast can be made of Grape-Nuts and cream and I think it is not advisable to overload the stomach at the morning meal. I also know the great value of Grape-Nuts when the stomach is too weak to digest other food.

"This is written after an experience of more than 20 years, treating all manner of chronic and acute diseases, and the letter is written voluntarily on my part without any request for it.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

NEW CARS RUNNING

ON LOCAL STREET

RAILWAY SYSTEM

Three Arrived Last Night and Were

Put into Service Today—General

Public Appears Grateful.

These new street cars are here—three of them. They were brought in from Rockford shortly after 3 o'clock last evening and the last one was transferred from the interurban railway to the local traction company's yard about three o'clock this morning. Superintendent

Murphy, Conductor Jim Dowling and Charles Thompson celebrated the completion of their strenuous labors with a day-break breakfast at McDonald's restaurant.

At 6:15 the local system. They failed to arrive before 6:30 a. m. at the avenue, who had from time immemorial been using the old "dying artillery" for an alarm clock. Mr. Nussens got up to see why he hadn't been awakened. He was much pleased with the changes which a single night had brought forth.

W. M. Floek ran out from his home,

216 East Milwaukee street, and sweeping past his lot, made a deep salutation. Dr. F. B. Farnsworth, coming down the Milwaukee street hill with his touring car, stopped and did likewise.

"It's pretty good progress for one day under the new management," said

Conductor McDonald. "I should call the improvement fully 1,000 per cent."

"Janesville must proclaim a homecoming right away," declared William

H. Hough, proprietor of the barber shop at 106 East Milwaukee street.

The new cars are "in the deep orange," so far as exterior appearance is concerned. They are rebuilt, rolling stock from the Rockford line and look substantial. Also, it is hardly necessary to add, they ride much easier than the old ones. They have been re-painted and re-decorated throughout and there is new carpeting on the side seats.

For a city which has thus far and heretofore only expended 90 cents per capita on street cars they ought to do—for a while, at least.

No name or title appears on them—

only the numbers "49," "15," and "23."

That is because the new incorporation has not yet been perfected. If its application is allowed it will be called the Janesville Traction Co. but there may be some difficulty on that score as the same name was used by the promoters of a defunct interurban project.

The cars were manned today as follows: FORTY-NINE, Motorman Lee

Gehrke, Conductor Jim Burdick; FIF-

TEEN, Motorman Tom Kelly, Conductor Don McLaughlin; TWENTY-

THREE, Motorman Harry Austin, Conductor Ed McLaughlin.

Three more cars are expected from the Rockford shops at an early date.

Two carloads of brick to be used between the tracks having arrived, the work of laying heavy rails from the bridge to High street was commenced this morning. The rails that have been in use were on "chairs" in several places and where these have broken the roadbed has been exceedingly uneven.

The floor of the postoffice has been replaced by a new one which improvement is a public benefit, inasmuch as it gives the patrons of the establishment a more secure footing, and furnishes us with a local item this gloomy, newsworthy day.

Competition in the boot and shoe business in this city, has had a tendency to bring down the price of that class of goods. Messrs; Talbot and Company, south Main street, were the first to hang out the banner of "small profits," and they propose to stick to their text during the coming winter. They have accumulated a large stock of leather goods, and are prepared to gratify all tastes and desires in the choice of covering for the foot.

A colored blacksmith left town rather suddenly last night, much to the sorrow of his numerous creditors. He disposed of all his personal property previous to going away, and exhibited his financial ability by taking the proceeds with him.

Mr. A. C. Bates is suffering from an attack of typhoid fever.

The Boy's Dilemma.
"It's awfully hard," says the Philosopher of Folly, "for a boy to choose between getting a good reputation and having a little fun out of life."

Folly of Fault-Finding.
Stop finding fault with people. The more a man finds fault the more proof that he hasn't done anything worth while himself.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome sour, out-of-order stomach before you realize it.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent can of Diapepsin and take a few little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, no nausea or heavy feeling in the stomach, no sour, debilitating headaches, no indigestion or intestinal griping. This will all go, and besides there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.
